

Contractors who physically incorporate tangible personal property into real estate owned by holders of "E" numbers can purchase such property tax-free by providing their suppliers with the certification described in Section 130.2075(d)(4), as well as the "E" number of the group into whose real estate that property will be incorporated. Dear Xxxxx:

This letter is in response to your letter dated October 5, 2000. The nature of your letter and the information you have provided require that we respond with a General Information Letter, which is designed to provide general information, is not a statement of Department policy and is not binding on the Department. See 2 Ill. Adm. Code 1200.120(b) and (c), which can be found on the Department's website at <http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/regs/part1200>.

In your letter, you have stated and made inquiry as follows:

We are writing to you at the recommendation of the Sales Tax Exemption Section MC 3-520.

Attached you will find the Illinois tax exempt certificate that has been issued to ORGANIZATION. See Attachment 1.

Also attached is a form that the STATE Department of Revenue has furnished to authorize project tax exemption to our construction contractors. See Attachment 2.

We request a 'letter ruling' authorizing our construction contractors/subcontractors tax exempt status for supply materials required in the performance of contracts issued by the ORGANIZATION. This could be accomplished through a form similar to STATE Department of Revenue form.

Please confirm this authority, or let us know what we need to do to get tax exempt status for our construction contractors/subcontractors. If we are authorized to pass on our tax exempt status, is it appropriate to create a form similar to the form furnished by the STATE Department of Revenue?

Your prompt attention to this matter will be greatly appreciated.

The Retailers' Occupation Tax Act imposes a tax upon persons engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail. A "sale at retail" is any transfer of the ownership of, or title to, tangible personal property to a purchaser, for use or consumption and not for resale in any form as tangible personal property, for a valuable consideration. See the enclosed copies of 86 Ill. Adm. Code 130.101 and 130.201.

Please find enclosed copies of 86 Ill. Adm. Code 130.1940 and 130.2075 regarding the tax liabilities of contractors in Illinois. The term "construction contractors" includes general contractors, subcontractors, and specialized contractors such as landscape contractors. The term "contractor" means any person or persons who are engaged in the occupation of entering into and performing construction contracts for owners. In Illinois, construction contractors are deemed end users of tangible personal property purchased for incorporation into real property. As end users of such tangible personal property, contractors incur Use Tax liability for such purchases based upon the cost price of the tangible personal property. Therefore, any tangible personal property that general contractors or subcontractors purchase that will be permanently affixed to or incorporated into real property in this State will be subject to Use Tax. If contractors did not pay the Use Tax liability to their suppliers, contractors must self-assess their Use Tax liability and pay it directly to the Department.

In Illinois, organizations that are determined by the Department to be exclusively charitable, religious, educational, or a governmental body, are issued tax exemption identification numbers ("E" numbers). Organizations holding such numbers are exempted from paying sales tax on organizational purchases. The organization must obtain and present this number to a retailer, however, before it can make a tax-free purchase. Suppliers selling tangible personal property to such exempt organizations must retain the "E" number in order to document the exempt sale.

As stated above, contractors are generally considered to be the end users of tangible personal property they permanently incorporate into real estate and owe Use Tax upon their purchases. However, contractors who physically incorporate tangible personal property into real estate owned by holders of "E" numbers can purchase such property tax-free by providing their suppliers with the certification described in Section 130.2075(d)(4), as well as the "E" number of the group into whose real estate that property will be incorporated. Section 130.2075(d)(4) states as follows:

"A supplier claiming exemption hereunder shall have among his records a certification from the purchasing contractor stating that his purchases are for conversion into real estate under a contract with a church, charity, school or governmental body, identifying the church, charity, school or governmental body that is involved by name and address and stating on what date his contract was entered into. The supplier shall also have among his records the active exemption number issued by the Department to the organization for which the purchasing contractor is acting.

As long as the certification contains the information set forth in the regulation, any format is acceptable. The suppliers should retain this information in order to document the tax-exempt sale.

Sales of tangible personal property to a construction contractor who does not incorporate the items into real estate owned by an exempt organization are subject to tax. Items which are purchased tax-free because of their intended incorporation into real estate owned by an exempt organization, but which are not, in fact, incorporated into real estate owned by an exempt organization, are also subject to tax.

I hope this information is helpful. The Department of Revenue maintains a website, which can be accessed at www.revenue.state.il.us. If you have further questions related to the Illinois sales tax laws, please contact the Department's Taxpayer Information Division at (217) 782-3336.

If you are not under audit and you wish to obtain a binding Private Letter Ruling regarding your factual situation, please submit all of the information set out in items 1 through 8 of the enclosed copy of Section 1200.110(b).

Very truly yours,
